Group 1:

"Wow! A brilliant display of light!" thought the wonderstruck child when she saw the burning candle once the power got cut and the mother brought in and placed the lit candle over the sofa table. It rushed in towards the light stealthily, and determined to catch hold of the brilliance of light in its tiny hands, before anyone noticed; it put in its hand to the glowing flame!

Unharmd by the flame, the baby played on with it for around ten minutes. After two years when the child went to the school, it learnt that fire burns and then after such knowledge dawned over it, suddenly the fingers of the child were burnt, the impact of playing with the candle flame two years ago!
